Please accept my regrets for the fantastic confusion at the airport on Saturday morning. I am afraid that it was just one of those things that happen from time to time as a result of genuine misunderstanding.

In any case, I was tremendously interested in the new technique we discussed very briefly on the plane. It so happens that we are now beginning to examine new classes of systems to which that might be quite applicable. We would be very grateful if you would set aside several hours during your next trip to Washington to tell us about it. I would include both myself and our development people in such a discussion.

Sincerely yours,
